In the lower reaches of rivers and in estuaries, separate Inland Fisheries rules may apply. For small rivers and creeks, the border between inland and marine rules is generally where the waters of the river meet the waters of the sea. For larger rivers with extensive tidal areas:

- a seaward limit is set; or
- special arrangements are in place for bream fishing.

Seaward Limits and Inland Waters: Where a seaward limit is set, an inland fisheries licence is required to fish on the upstream side.

Bream Fishing Area: In a bream fishing area, an inland fisheries licence is required for trout and seasons may apply. Bream and marine species can be taken without an inland fisheries licence with up to two rods, all year round.

For inland fishing enquiries, contact:

Inland Fisheries Service

Fishing near Marine Farms

Recreational fishing in marine farming lease areas is prohibited without the permission of the leaseholder. Marine farming leases provide the leaseholder with exclusive right of occupation of the waters and seabed.

A few simple rules should be followed:

- be aware of marine farming leases in any area you intend to fish. If unsure, check the lease charts on LISTMap at: www.thelist.tas.gov.au;
- keep well clear of the boundaries of marine farming lease areas which are marked with IALA special markers (see photos) as you may be trespassing; and
- be careful if anchoring or fishing near deep water marine farming lease areas. The anchors and mooring lines for marine farming equipment are allowed to extend outside the lease area and you risk fouling your gear or anchor.

For any questions regarding marine farming leases, email the DPIPWE Marine Farming Branch at mfops@dpipwe.tas.gov.au.
